Barbara Llewellyn catered our wedding, and they were completely fantastic. Most caterers when I first got in touch with them sent me a "sample menu" with pricing. Barbara (and her very nice associate Christine, but who was the one I actually worked with most closely) were the only ones to ask me what "I" envisioned before giving me the quote. Which was cool because I had some pretty specific ideas. The food (pre-plated wild mushroom soup followed by a buffet including duck in pomegranate sauce, grilled salmon, polenta, leafy green salad, cheese & fruit board) was wonderful -- when people talked to us afterwards about the wedding, they invariably talk about how good the food was. In fact it's been months and one of my friends remarked to me just the other day about how great the food was!

It was not particularly cheap; we spent about ten thousand on the catering for 75 people, not including alcohol, but that did include passed appetizers, wedding cake, set-up and break-down, service and gratuity, and all the rentals...flatware, china, tables, and we splurged on specialty linens. If you know much about wedding costs you'll know that's not at all unreasonable (it's easy to spend a lot more, for IMO no better service). They were very good about outlining all the options available, and keeping me apprised of costs as we went forward with the planning. I didn't have a wedding planner and I didn't need one because Christine was totally on top of the ball, and they had an event manager on hand the day of the wedding to keep everything flowing smoothly. At the end of the night they packaged up the leftovers for my husband and I to take home -- we ate them for a week!

I recommend these folks "highly". Very professional, very nice, will make your event stress-free... and most importantly will supply you with amazingly yummy food!
